■ “Events, disasters, narratives and temporalities in environmental history”

June 28- July 2. Musée national de Port Royal des Champs, Yvelines, France

This event is organized by Kindunos (www.histoire-environnementale.com/) and sponsored by Sciences Po – Scientific humanities chair (Bruno Latour), NiCHE, the Agence Nationale de la Recherche (ANR) and the Ministère de l'Ecologie, de l'Energie, du Développement Durable et de la Mer (MEEDDM) chargé des technologies vertes et des négociations sur le climat. The language of the summer school will be English.

This first ESEH summer school is not focused only on risks and disasters but rather on how to inscribe them within the writing of environmental history.

Doctoral students, post-doctoral fellows, and more senior scholars are welcome to apply by email, to Gregory Quenet (gregory.quenet@free.fr) BY 15 April 2010. Applications must include a 1 page CV, and a brief statement (about 200 words) indicating how the applicant hopes to benefit from participation in this summer school and what they will contribute to it. Places in the summer school will be allocated after consideration of these statements. Decisions will be communicated to applicants in early April.
